Popular Products for Beginners and Experienced Genealogists

Just starting out in Family History?

We can't do your family tree for you but we can help you with a few pointers of where to look and how to record what you find. On this page and the next we have some starter packs, book pages and charts to help you record and make sense of what you find out about your ancestors and their families.

Working Charts

Our Working Charts are proving very popular with customers, as it is especially useful where there is a desire to show siblings and their descendants on a chart. It has no predetermined family structures thus allowing you to add any number of siblings to a family. Works best for 'descendant' and 'all-relatives' charts.

More details on page 43.

Family Tree Book Pages

A4 Family Tree Book pages for you to fill in and then insert into a binder.

There are many book versions of this type of system for recording your family information but the publishers decide how many of each page to print whereas with our loose leaf system you decide what pages are needed and errors may be easily discarded and replaced.

Please see page 38 for more details and prices.

Are you serious about preserving your past?

Are you having difficulty storing certificates in ordinary A4 folders? Do you have concerns about the long term storage of old photographs? Do you know the life expectancy of the paper you are printing on? These are just some of the concerns our customers have about preserving their research for their own descendants. Did you know that even storing data on CDs can be problematic as these can deteriorate over time and once corruption begins whole photographs and sections of data can be lost forever. Serious archivists still prefer to see printed documents as these have been proven to last hundreds of years if printed out on acid free paper and stored carefully.

We stock the 'Parkinson' brand of archive binders, albums and hold-alls, recognised for its quality for many years by archivists in libraries and museums, as well as some of our own independently sourced binders, to give you a vast array of archive solutions to choose from.

Not sure which binder to purchase? Here's our simple guide:

TIP: What order should documents go into a folder?

There is no right or wrong way for this but many genealogists use the divider sets to divide up their documents by family name. Within a name you could file a marriage certificate followed by the birth certificates of any children and the death certificates of the parent followed by the marriages of children and their families etc. It is probably more interesting to file the oldest documents first followed by more recent additions towards the back of the binder.

Certificate Storage Solutions – Traditional

There are four binders to choose from that will allow you to store your traditional (long) and modern GRO certificates all in the same binder.

Standard Certificate Binder (Traditional long certificate size)

Storing Old Photographs

There are two aspects to storing photographs. 1) How best to store the originals. 2) How best to pass copies of them on to various descendants. (Of course one lucky descendant will get the originals). From an archiving perspective it is important that your old photos are stored to prolong their life. Scanning them will allow you to present them in family tree charts, reports or dedicated photograph albums that may be duplicated as many times as you wish.

We do not recommend encapsulating photos in plastic using a laminating machine or the use of albums with stick down plastic coverings. This can be harmful to photographs even in the short term.

Why use Family Tree Maker when you have a perfectly good account on Ancestry.co.uk?

An online family tree at Ancestry is how many people get going with their family tree research and it can work well until you wish to start printing reports and charts to give out to family members. The online facilities for creating printed reports and wall charts either don't exist or are extremely limited in what they can do. There can also be problems with online trees where people in the tree get duplicated. This can be down to errors that occur when a user deletes people in the tree that have other relatives attached or simply tries to delete a person with children in a marriage where the wrong partner has been attached. Online these errors are not easy to spot and the greater the number of people in the tree the greater the chance of mistakes creeping in.

By purchasing the Family Tree Maker program you will be able to manage your tree much more efficiently and have more control over your data plus it will reduce the requirement of paying for a continuous Ancestry subscription just to be able to access the source images linked to your file. The program will download everything attached to your tree for permanent use on your Windows or Mac computer.

Here is a quick overview of just four facilities that you get with the program that are not available online:

Publishing Your Family History

At My History we are always looking for ways to make your life easier when it comes to sharing your family history research with others. We know how tedious it is sticking lots of pieces of paper together to make a chart or printing and photocopying many pages of work in order to pass on knowledge to others in the family.

There is always a feeling that there is more work to be done but at the same time wouldn't it be wonderful to give a beautifully bound copy of your work or a quality rolled up chart as a present to someone else in the family. What better way to pass on your work for others to treasure in future years.

Do something today; don't just leave your work to chance for descendants to stumble across in digital format.

On the following pages we offer; pre-printed charts for you to fill in, our chart printing service, springback binders and our new 'print & bind' book publishing.

A4 Archive Quality Permanent Paper (Acid-Free)

You can print your family tree information including photographs onto this paper knowing it has been guaranteed by the manufacturer for 200 years. Suitable for use in both inkjet and laser jet printers, and of course you may also write on it.

This paper goes one better than Acid-free paper. It conforms to a particular set of standards such as pH level, alkaline reserve (calcium carbonate equivalent), tear resistance and resistance to oxidation. It is the alkaline reserve that helps the paper resist contamination from external sources over the years.

Working Charts

We have spent considerable time getting this idea just right for customers who wish to write up their family tree by hand. It will be especially useful where there is a desire to show siblings and their descendants on the chart as there are no predetermined family structures thus allowing you to add any number of siblings to a family. Works best for 'descendant' or 'all-relatives' charts.

Printed with faint lines and boxes that are un-noticed when the chart is filled in with pencil or ink pen. There are 22 boxes per linear metre on each row of the chart. When considering the length of chart required you will need to think about the number of children in each generation that you wish to record. We also advise leaving at least one box space between families to make the chart easier to follow. Each box is 38 x 30mm.

Supplied with mini sticky notes and instructions to help you plan your chart. Two heights of chart available; 24 inch - 10 generations or 33 inch - 14 generations. Ordering longer lengths and cutting to the length required will save you money.

Family History and Plain Springback Book Binders

The perfect way to print and present your family history in book form. Our springback book binders allow you to bind up to 250 sheets of A4 (90gsm) paper by just folding the cover back on itself, inserting the pages and when the cover is closed the edges of the pages are gripped tightly.

You may remove and reinsert the pages as many times as you like thus allowing your publication to grow over time. There are no holes to punch and the quality and feel of the finished work is more like a book than any ring binder. These binders help you make the perfect gift when presenting a printed family history to other members of your family.

Please take a look at the springback binder video on our website.

Bookmaking Information

Some family tree software packages will allow you to set up a series of reports and charts in the form of book pages. The software will allow you to write a title page and automatically create a contents page and an index. It also numbers all the pages thus making a complete work for publication and distribution to other family members.

Whilst we are convinced at My History that many younger members of the family will be happy to receive your work in digital format by way of a website on CD or a copy of your data file, we also believe that there is no better way of preserving a link to the past than with a printed document.

This is because we believe it is still the most accessible way to present information to a wide audience and will never be reliant on any technology other than the quality of the paper used.

The information presented does not have to be every detail from your tree and at the very least will provide an introduction to the family archive encouraging our inquisitive descendants to access the extra data locked away in a digital format.

Two of the most popular packages at the moment for producing books are Family Tree Maker and Family Historian.

Trade Directories and Data CDs

We already have over 200 trade directories scanned from all over the UK. In 2019 we have stepped up our scanning to try and get the backlog down and all directories are now available for download at our sister website TWR Computing as well as on DVD from www.my-history.co.uk.

For downloads please go to www.my-history.co.uk/htd

What's in a Directory?

These directories will often indicate both a business address and a home address for people in business or professionals from shoemakers to solicitors and landlords of pubs, beer houses and Inns. They often also include a huge amount of extra information such as; details of towns and villages, times of coaches and delivery services etc.

Whilst this won't always help you find a family member it can assist you with understanding what a place was like when your ancestor lived there. This information can often be added to your family history to make it a more interesting read.

To the left is just a sample of a page from a directory indicating the diversity of the businesses included in such a publication. There is often a separate section for residential addresses.

The adverts in these directories are also fascinating to read as they will often give a clue as to what our ancestors were likely to be buying to keep up with the latest fashions and technology.

More Directories to Scan

In addition to the directories listed we have a large backlog of directories to scan over the coming year so please take a look at our website occasionally to see the latest listings: www.my-history.co.uk

Introduction to DNA Tests

DNA testing is a bit of a minefield and it is not just about price when it comes to choosing a provider. On this page we try to give you some idea of the likely companies you will come across within the Genealogy market.

Perhaps even before you get tested you may be interested in an excellent book (below) that gives you some seriously good indications of what you might learn from having a DNA test.

Visit our website at www.my-history.co.uk/dna for the latest hints and tips and links to the sites shown on this page along with up to date prices and any offers available.

Here are a few tips to consider:

- Once you have been tested your DNA results will give you an insight into where in the World some of your ancestors may originate from.
- Any results you receive are based on the testing of millions of people that has been done so far. As more people are tested it is quite possible that your origins or at least the percentage breakdown of your origins will alter so it is always worth going back and checking your results over time.
- Ancestry is by far the largest company in the Genealogy testing arena so your results are compared to their records which may give you a more accurate result quite early on.
- Another aspect of DNA testing is the possible matches to cousins and other relatives. If others in your family have had a test done with the same company then it is possible that they will be listed as likely relatives. Obviously this could be someone already known to you or in the case of a 2nd, 3rd or 4th cousin for instance it may be someone you are not already aware of.
- WARNING: Just as people are breaking down brickwalls and finding family connections to previously unknown fathers there is always the possibility that a hitherto assumed family relationship is proven to be incorrect. We recently spoke to someone at an exhibition who had only just found out that her father was not who she thought of as her father.
- It is often worth testing two family members, close or distantly related as the proportion of DNA passed down from a father and mother can vary considerably between siblings. By having one or more sets of results to compare you may get a more realistic idea of your ancestors origins. It is this random inheritance of genes that often makes us look slightly or greatly different to our siblings.

DNA for Genealogists

A very accessible 58-page booklet showing how you can use DNA to harness this exciting new range of genealogical research tools. This publication provides a contextual understanding of DNA suitable for genealogists and discusses the currently available tests that are likely to be of interest to family historians, especially those wanting to prove (or disprove) compiled family trees, to connect 'new' relatives by means of inherited genetic material.

Searching for your Ancestors Online - Vouchers & Subscriptions

What is the best site for searching for ancestors?

We often get asked this question and over the years our answer hasn't really changed. There are two large suppliers of data that most genealogists will need to link to at some point in their research. Findmypast and Ancestry are both excellent sources for records and for various reasons when you can't find something on one you may well find it on the other. However other sites such as Family Search, Forces War Records, Free BMD, My Heritage and The Genealogist all have something to offer and even more so when you consider that they are probably the ones specialising in smaller record sets that the larger suppliers are perhaps ignoring. Please go to our website www.myhistory.co.uk for a more detailed explanation of the above sites.

Ancestry Subscriptions

For more information please visit my-history.co.uk/ancestry

Free or Subscription websites

There are a few sites on the internet where you may search for your ancestors without being charged. For a full list of these please see the right-hand side bar of our home page at www.my-history.co.uk. Other sites such as Find My Past and Ancestry charge for viewing their records not only because of the high cost of scanning them but also because they are investing in scanning and transcribing even more records. You may purchase subscriptions online or by voucher (Find My Past only) from My History.

Find My Past Subscriptions & Vouchers

We now have two voucher codes available for the Findmypast.co.uk website. These vouchers allow you to search all the UK records including the 1939 Register. We can deliver voucher codes by post or as a simple printed code by email.

1 Month code £14.20
 12 Month code £121.25
